WHY THIS DIRECTORY?

Information about industry in northern Wisconsin is often scattered, hard to find, unreliable. This directory is an attempt to organize - as accurately as possible - information on industry in northern Wisconsin into one convenient source.

Information about industry in northern Wisconsin is often non-existent, left out of other directories, considered insignificant relative to the facts and figures of larger establishments. This directory tries to plug those information gaps by including as many industries as possible, regardless of size or classification.

Assistance in gathering information was provided by resource agents of University Extension in the counties covered by the directory.

Names of all companies (1139) in the 29 northern counties of Wisconsin are listed in this directory; but complete information is included only for those which returned questionnaires (more than 700).

Information in this directory is as accurate as possible under the circumstances.

HOW TO USE THIS DIRECTORY:

This directory contains information on 1139 companies located in the 29 northern counties of Wisconsin. Companies of all sizes and all industrial classifications are included.

The directory is organized around Section I, an alphabetical master list of all companies. Section I includes the name of the company, its address, phone number, county location, employment, personnel and their positions, general products/services area, specific products/services, and manufacturing equipment.

Personnel positions and manufacturing equipment are coded to save space. The key is located on pages vi and vii and also on the enclosed bookmark.

Section I is the only place in this directory containing all available information about a company. The other sections in the directory are designed to be used in conjunction with Section I. They list names of companies according to county location (Section II), general products/services area (Section III), specific products/services (Section IV), and type of manufacturing equipment (Section V). Once the name of a company is located in one of the other sections, refer to the entry of that company in Section I to obtain further information about the company.

EXAMPLES:

Problem 1: What are the addresses of companies located in Burnett County?
Solution: List of companies located in Burnett County can be found in Section II. To find the addresses, look up each company by its name in Section I.

Problem 2: What are the names and addresses of companies in the food processing business in northern Wisconsin?
Solution: Food processors are listed in Section III under the general heading "Food Processing." Addresses for each company can be located in Section I.

Problem 3: Which companies manufacture fiberglass boats in northern Wisconsin?
Solution: Names of companies making fiberglass boats will be found in Section IV under the specific products/services heading "Boats, Fiberglass." Complete information on these companies can then be found in Section I.

Problem 4: What companies have food-drying equipment?
Solution: Companies doing food drying will be found in Section V under the general heading "Food Processing" and the sub-heading "Drying." By referring to these companies in Section I, addresses can be found. The specific pieces of equipment each company has can be determined from the coded lists for each company in Section I and the key on enclosed bookmark.

Cross-referencing can be accomplished quite easily with this directory. For example: assume that you are located in Ashland county and you want to find the firm closest to you that has a brake.

The first step would be to turn to Section V, main heading Metalworking, sub-heading Brake. There are 36 companies listed.

Step number two would be to compare this list against the list of companies in Ashland County, Section II. Jot down the names of companies appearing in both lists (in this case there are 2.)

Step number three. Refer to Section I for the address, telephone number, etc. of those two companies.

Each entry (where information available) includes company name, address, phone number, personnel and their positions, employment, general products/services area, specific products/services, and manufacturing equipment. County location of each company is placed in parentheses at the right of each entry.

Equipment is listed by general products/services area, and is then broken down into specific equipment functions. Thus, a company operating a metals borer will be listed under the general heading "Metalworking" and the sub-heading "Boring Machinery." Likewise, a company with a food grinder will be listed under "Food Processing" and the sub-heading "Grinding, Food."

Coded lists of the particular pieces of equipment operated by a company will be found in the master list of companies in Section I. Key to the code is on pages vi and vii of this directory and on the enclosed bookmark.
